Good Afternoon Currituck County Parents/Guardians,

The North Carolina Department of Public Instruction notified more than 109 districts and 59 charter schools of a software malfunction that impacted the online grade book program used to store and calculate student grades. Currituck County Schools is among the districts affected by this malfunction.

For a small number of students, the malfunction caused an error in how grades were calculated during the first and second quarter. Not every student was affected by the miscalculation.

Data managers in conjunction with our district staff were able to take steps to fix the malfunction. The work behind the scenes to correct the grade calculation error has led us to temporarily disable the student and parent portal of PowerSchool. We anticipate it re-opening early next week. Our goal is to ensure that all of our students receive an accurate grade for the work they have completed.

If you have any questions related to grading, please feel free to contact your child's teacher.

Thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

Mark Stefanik, Superintendent
